

Maddison Morales

AP Portfolio 2019

Breadth

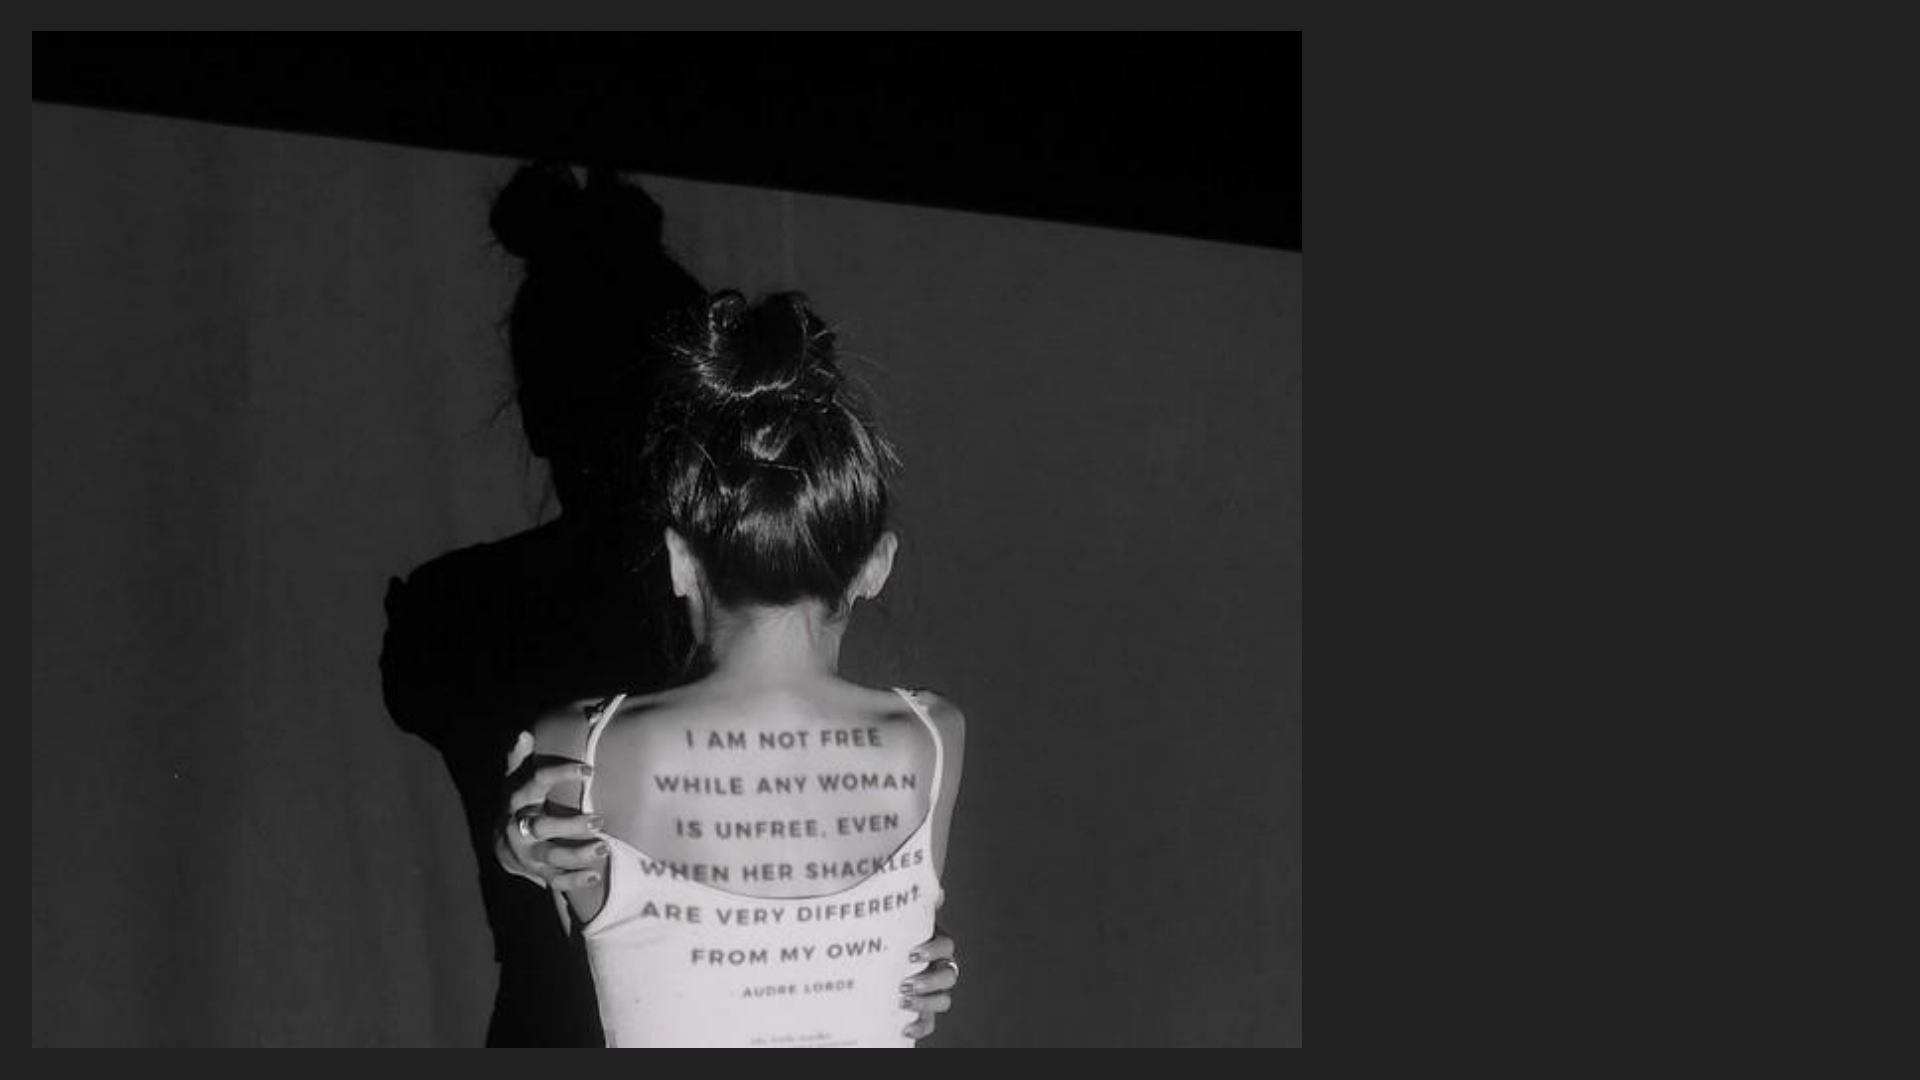

A black and white photograph of a woman from behind. She has her hair in a bun and is wearing a white tank top. A large shadow of her is cast onto the wall behind her. The back of her tank top features a printed quote in all caps.

I AM NOT FREE
WHILE ANY WOMAN IS UNFREE. EVEN WHEN HER SHACKLES
ARE VERY DIFFERENT FROM MY OWN.

AUDRE LORDE

concentration

Concentration statment

To say skateboarding is a sport is an understatement. To some people skating is a sport but, to others it's an art form and lifestyle. Skating presents its own culture that influences music, fashion, and morals of the youth. From 1950s sidewalk surfing to the zephyr skate team putting Venice on the maps, the evolution of skating grew as with an anti establishment subculture. Kids made something out of nothing and the streets became their skate parks. The skate culture shaped kids identities and motivated them to be courageous and innovative. Wondering about the possibilities of the sport, the youth's creativity sparked a fire for skating that still burns today. To skate is to defy gravity.

